The definitive reference on toxicology is now available as a paperback edition. Medical Toxicology: Diagnosis and Treatment of Human Poisoning is written and compiled by two highly regarded specialists in toxicology and medicine. It is now established as the most comprehensive book on the diagnosis and treatment of human poisonings. Toxic substances from thousands of drugs and chemical products are extensively presented. You'll find the toxic dosage, pharmacokinetics and pathophysiology for each substance, as well as detailed clinical manifestations, analytical laboratory methods, and treatments for a multitude of different poisonings. This book Presents not only detailed management procedures but also the rationale behind their applications. This practical volume also features an extensive index and up-to-date bibliographies that allow you easy cross-referencing. With over 1,500 pages, 8,000 references and nearly 700 tables and figures, Medical Toxicology is the most comprehensive reference of its kind. Medical Toxicology is divided into five major sections: general approach to the poisoned patient, therapeutic drugs, drugs of abuse, chemical products, and natural toxins.

The CD-ROM features complete patient management regimens, including tables, charts, illustrations, tests and studies; advanced hypertext features; over 300 images of chemical structures, algorithms and charts; and two query templates.

"Building on the previous edition with contributions from internationally renowned experts this book provides a fully comprehensive resource for managing the post emergency/treatment stage of acute poisoning. Chapters incorporate evidence-based paradigms with up-to-date citations from the original medical literature. Topic areas covered include: diagnosis and management of the critically poisoned patient, including pediatric patients and poisoning in pregnancy; toxic syndromes including hepatotoxic and pulmonary syndromes as well as poisonings from medications, drugs of abuse, chemical and biological agents. This book is an essential resource for Clinical Toxicologists, Intensivists and Emergency Medicine specialists in training and in practice." - Prové de l'editor.

The book contains reviews and posters of the 31st Congress of the EUROTOX (Maastricht 1991). - Forensic Toxicology - Drug Toxicology - Environmental Toxicology

Environmental illness: certain health professionals and clinical ecologists claim it impacts and inhibits 15 percent of the population. Its afflicted are led to believe environmental illness (EI) originates with food, chemicals, and other stimuli in their surroundings -as advocates call for drastic measures to remedy the situation. What if relief proves elusive-and the patient is sent on a course of ongoing, costly and ineffective "treatment"? Several hundred individuals who believed they were suffering from EI have been evaluated or treated by Herman Staudenmayer since the 1970s. Staudenmayer believed the symptoms harming his patients actually had psychophysiological origins-based more in fear of a hostile world than any suspected toxins contained in the environment. Staudenmayer's years of research, clinical work-and successful care-are now summarized in Environmental Illness: Myth & Reality. Dismissing much of the information that has attempted to defend EI and its culture of victimization, Staudenmayer details the alternative diagnoses and treatments that have helped patients recognize their true conditions-and finally overcome them, often after years of prolonged suffering.
